In most cases, the Firm will credit the client with the full amount of the plan expense reimbursement received via an offset to the client's bill. In some cases, clients may choose to pay the Firm's entire bill and have any plan expense reimbursement credited to their account. Risk of Loss and Material Risks

Clients should understand that investing in securities involves risk of loss that they should be prepared to evaluate.

Certain Risk Factors

All investments carry some amount of risk. The Firm's investment strategies may be subject to the following principal investment risks:

- Business Risk - These are risks associated with a particular industry or company. A company or industry may need to go through a lengthy process before realizing a profit or may be particularly affected by political events in foreign countries. A utility company, for example, generates income from a steady stream of customers who need its product, no matter what the economy is like.
- Credit Risks – The risk that the portfolio could lose money if the issuer of guarantor of a fixed-income security, or the counter-party to a derivative contract, is unable or unwilling to meet its financial obligations.
- Debt Securities Risks – The issuer of a debt security may fail to pay interest of principal when due, and changes in market interest rates may reduce the value of debt securities or reduce the portfolio's returns.
- Equity Risks – The risk that the value of equity securities, such as common stocks and preferred stocks, may decline due to general market conditions which are not specifically related to a particular company or to factors affecting a particular industry or industries. Equity securities generally have greater price volatility than fixed income securities.
- High-Yield Securities Risk – High-yield securities have a much greater risk of default or of not returning principal and tend to be more volatile than higher-rated securities of similar maturity.
- Interest-Rate Risk- The risk that fixed income securities will decline in value because of an increase in interest rates.
- Investment Risk - Different types of investments involve varying degrees of risk, and it should not be assumed that future performance of any specific investment or investment strategy (including the investments and/or investment strategies recommended or undertaken by the Firm will be profitable or equal any specific performance level(s).
- Liquidity Risk – A security may not be able to be sold at the time desired or without adversely affecting the price.
- Market Risk – The market price of securities held by a portfolio may rapidly or unpredictably decline due to factors affecting securities markets generally or particular industries. Examples include political, economic and social conditions that may trigger market events. This is particularly applicable to foreign investments.
- Mortgage- and Asset-Backed Securities Risk – These securities may decline in value when defaults on the underlying mortgage or assets occur and may exhibit additional volatility in periods of changing interest rates. When interest rates decline, the prepayment of mortgages or assets underlying such securities may require the reinvestment of money at lower prevailing interest rates, resulting in reduced returns.
- Regulatory Risk – The risk that changes in government regulations may adversely affect the value of a security. An insufficiently regulated industry or market might also permit inappropriate practices that adversely affect an investment.

These holdings are reviewed on a regular basis by an appropriate officer/individual. The Firm requires all access persons to pre-clear all reportable securities transactions.

Recommendations Involving Material Financial Interests

The Firm will not cross trades between client accounts. An agency cross transaction is defined as a transaction where a person acts as an investment adviser in relation to a transaction in which the investment adviser, or any person controlled by or under common control with the investment adviser acts as broker for both the advisory client and for another person on the other side of the transaction.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

Recommending Brokerage Firms

The Firm requires that consulting clients use the brokerage services of Schwab Institutional ("SI"), a division of Charles Schwab & Co. ("Schwab"), or Fidelity Institutional Advisor Group ("FIAG") for implementation of all recommended transactions in no-load and load mutual funds at net asset value without compensation to the Firm's related persons.

Best Execution

The Firm reviews securities pricing and trades on a monthly basis to assure that all trades were placed at the correct NAV (Net Asset Value). Additionally, on an annual basis the Firm reviews all utilized brokerage and custodial firms for compliance, pricing and service standards.

Benefits Received by BOK Financial Asset Management, Inc.

The Firm participates in the service program offered by Schwab Institutional ("SI"), a division of Charles Schwab, and Fidelity Institutional Advisor Group ("FIAG"). The economic benefits derived from participation in the service program can include: receipt of duplicate client confirmations; bundled duplicate client confirmations and statements. In addition, the client has access to a trading desk serving SI and FIAG participants exclusively; access to block trading, which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to the client's address. Benefits also include access to an electronic communication network for client order entry, account information, receipts of compliance publications, and access to mutual funds generally requiring a significantly higher minimum initial investment or available only to institutional investors. These benefits received through participation in the SI and FIAG programs do not depend upon the amount of transactions directed to Schwab or Fidelity.

SI and FIAG also make available to the Firm, other products and services that benefit the Firm but may not benefit its clients' accounts. Some of these other products and services assist the Firm in managing and administering clients' accounts which include software and other technology that provide access to client account data (such as trade confirmations and account statements); facilitate trade execution (and allocation of aggregated trade orders for multiple client accounts); provide research, pricing information and other market data; facilitate payment of the Firm's fees from its clients accounts; and assist with back-office functions, recordkeeping and client reporting.

With respect to any brokerage commissions charged by executing broker/dealers, the Firm will regularly and continuously review such charges within the foregoing criteria and such other comparative standards which it may regard as pertinent for the purpose of evaluating the reasonableness of such commissions. As permitted by law, and specifically by provisions of Section 28(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, the Firm may cause its clients to pay a broker/dealer an amount of commission for executing a portfolio transaction order on behalf of its clients which is in excess of the commissions other broker/dealers would have charged for effecting such a transaction. In order to do so, the Firm must determine in good faith that the higher commissions are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services provided by the executing broker/dealer viewed in terms of either a particular transaction or the Firm's overall responsibilities to its other clients.

Brokerage for Client Referrals: The Firm does not consider the potential receipt of referrals when it recommends or selects brokers or dealers for its clients. The Firm follows the Firm's best execution policy in selecting brokers or dealers to effect portfolio transactions.

Directed Brokerage: The Firm has discretionary authority to determine securities to be bought or sold; the total amount of securities to be bought and sold; the brokers/dealers through whom securities are to be bought and sold; and the commission rates at which securities transactions are to be affected. The Firm will be responsible for any losses with regard to trade errors.

Order Aggregation

The Firm's fundamental policy is to seek for its clients what, in its judgment, will be the best overall execution of purchase or sale orders and the most favorable net prices in securities transactions consistent with its judgment as to the business qualifications of the various broker or dealer firms with which the Firm may do business. Decisions with respect to the market in which the transaction is to be completed, the form of the transactions, and the allocation of orders among brokers or dealers are made in accordance with this policy.

When trading the same security across multiple accounts, the Firm may aggregate or place a block trade and allocate the order to each client accordingly. This will result in less execution costs and expenses. When executing this type of order, the execution price will be an "averaged priced" so that each client receives the same execution price and to avoid any potential conflicts of interest. If an employee of the Firm is included in the order, the Firm will ensure that the employee account does not receive a better price than the client.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

Periodic Reviews

All accounts are reviewed on an annual basis. Asset allocation models will be based either on standard model portfolios or upon client specific requests. Reviewers will be the senior management of the Firm. The underlying fund investments are reviewed on a quarterly basis to ensure they are meeting and/or exceeding their respective standard market indices.

Regular Reports

Clients will receive formal performance reports on a quarterly basis. Reports will reflect deposits and withdrawals from the account, and investment performance. Investment performance will measure performance of individual assets within the account, the account as a composite and compare account performance against standard market indexes. The clients also receive brokerage transaction confirmations and statements at least quarterly from the custodian of the account. All statements sent by the Firm include a legend directing the clients to review and compare with statements provided by the custodians.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

Referrals

The Firm or any related person does not, directly or indirectly, receive compensation or provide compensation to or from any person or entity for client referrals.
